GRASS SEEDING TIP
Increase the odds that your grass seed will sprout & grow as desired by using a tool that you probably have in your kitchen right now - a broom! Bright Ideas: What Homeowners Need to Know Before Switching to LED Lighting

LED lighting has quickly become the go-to for energy-conscious homeowners—and for good reason. LEDs (Light Emitting Diodes) are more energy efficient, last longer, and come in a variety of styles to suit nearly every space in your home. But before you start swapping out bulbs, it helps to understand the basics and know when a project is simple DIY—and when it's time to call a pro.

The Easy Wins: Screw-in Bulbs

The simplest LED upgrade? Replacing traditional incandescent or CFL bulbs with screw-in LED bulbs. These bulbs come in standard sizes and base types, making them a plug-and-play option for most lamps and fixtures. Just be sure to check the base type (E26 is the common medium base in the U.S.) and make sure the fixture isn't enclosed unless the bulb is rated for it (some LEDs can overheat in enclosed fixtures).

Pro Tip: If your light is connected to a dimmer switch, make sure the LED bulb is labeled "dimmable" and is compatible with your existing dimmer.

When It Gets Technical: Recessed Lighting, Fluorescent Fixtures & Transformers

Some LED upgrades are a little more involved:

- Recessed lighting kits: While many are DIY-friendly, retrofitting old can lights with LED inserts may require adjusting housings or dealing with insulation.
- Fluorescent tube replacements: Swapping out T8 or T12 fluorescent tubes for LEDs can get tricky. Some LED tubes work with existing ballasts (ballast-compatible), while others require removing or bypassing the ballast. If you're unsure, it's safest to have an electrician do the wiring. I do know a quick search on YouTube will show you what you need to do to bypass the ballast, and while I never recommend you do your own electrical work because I don't know what your skill level is, there are sources that will give you that extra knowledge to determine if you feel you have the skills to DIY this project.
- Low-voltage systems: If you're replacing halogen lights in under-cabinet or landscape lighting, be aware that many use transformers. Not all LEDs are compatible with older transformers, and a mismatch can lead to flickering or failure. A pro can help assess your system.

For over a century we've served customers who can do just about anything. You deserve a financial partner who works as hard as you do.

Watts vs. Lumens: Understanding Light Output

In the incandescent days, we picked bulbs based on watts (energy usage), assuming more watts = more brightness. But LEDs are so efficient that watts no longer tell the full story.

- Lumens measure the actual brightness.
- A 60-watt incandescent gives off about 800 lumens. To match that with an LED, you only need about 8 to 12 watts.
- So, when shopping LEDs, look for lumens, not watts.

Incandescent Watts	LED Watts	Equivalent Lumens
40W	6-9W	450
60W	8-12W	800
100W	16-20W	1600

Color Temperatures: Soft, Bright, or Daylight?

LEDs also let you control the color and feel of the light through color temperature, measured in Kelvins (K):

- 2700K – 3000K: Soft White – warm, cozy feel, best for living rooms, bedrooms
- 3500K – 4100K: Bright White – cleaner, neutral light, great for kitchens, bathrooms
- 5000K – 6500K: Daylight – cool, blue-white light, ideal for garages, task lighting, outdoor areas

Some LED bulbs are tunable or color-changing, letting you adjust brightness and color via an app or smart home hub.

Other Considerations

- Cost upfront, savings long-term – LEDs can cost more initially, but the energy savings and longer lifespan (up to 25,000+ hours) more than make up for it.
- Compatibility – Some older dimmers, switches, or timers may not play well with LEDs. When in doubt, check with the manufacturer or a licensed electrician.
- Light direction – LEDs often emit directional light, which is perfect for task lighting but may feel different than the "all-around" glow of an incandescent.

Converting to LED lighting is one of the easiest ways to improve energy efficiency and update the look and feel of your home. With a little know-how and the right bulbs, most homeowners can handle the basics. But for more complex setups, involving wiring, transformers, or specialty fixtures, don't hesitate to bring in a professional, you'll find many in the Services section of this issue.

Maximize Your Space - Smart Ways to Store Lawn Mowers & Other Yard Tools

If You Only Have a Garage (and still need to park your car):

If a shed isn't an option, here are some other ways to maximize the space you do have:

1. Wall Storage Is Your Friend

Use pegboards or wall-mounted racks to hang rakes, shovels, and trimmers.

Add hooks or brackets for hoses, extension cords, and ladders.

Tall vertical storage keeps the floor clear.

2. Overhead Storage

Ceiling-mounted racks or shelves are great for lightweight items like seasonal planters or bags of fertilizer.

Make sure you don't block your garage door or reduce headroom for your vehicle.

3. Rolling Tool Chest or Cabinet

Keep smaller tools and gardening gloves organized in drawers.

Find compact cabinets small enough to fit under workbenches.

4. Foldable or Compact Lawn Mower

If you have a newer electric mower, some models fold upright to save floor space.

If you have a bulky gas mower, parking it in a corner or against a side wall helps keep it out of the way of vehicle doors.

If You Have Room for a Small Shed:

Even a 4x6 or 6x8 ft shed can make a huge difference. There are lots of local shed companies to choose from and may even advertise in the Exchange.

- Great for keeping fuel, fertilizers, and sharp tools away from kids or pets.
- Frees up your garage for car parking, bikes, or other hobbies.
- Choose resin or metal for low maintenance; wood if you want it to blend in with landscaping.

Combo Option: Half Shed / Half Garage

- Store the mower and chemicals in the shed.
- Keep frequently-used tools like a rake or trimmer on your garage wall for quick access.

Bonus Tips:

- Label everything. It saves time.
- Keep a bucket or box by the door for gloves, clippers, and seed packets.
- Hang a magnetic strip for small metal tools (pruners, trowels, etc.).
